

Privacy Policy

First Christian Church of Newburgh ("FCNewburgh") cares about your privacy. This privacy policy tells you what information we collect at our website(s) and how we use it. If you choose to visit any of the First Christian Church of Newburgh websites, your visit is subject to this privacy policy, and you agree to the terms of it.

What Information We Collect

There are many places at our sites where you can share your personal information with us, and where you can communicate with others.

Registration. Some of our sites give you the opportunity to register with us, and sometimes registration is required before certain site features can be used. Our registration forms may request your contact information (such as your name, email address, mailing address, etc.), demographic information (such as your country, gender, etc.), and profile data (such as your listening/viewing preferences, etc.). You may be assigned a site username and/or password. For our internal purposes, we use this information to communicate with you and provide the services you have requested, and to provide a more personalized experience on our sites. We use compiled demographic and profile information about our audience to improve our service, for research purposes, marketing/promotional purposes among others. By visiting our sites, you affirmatively consent to our collection and use of your data.

Newsletters and Other Communications from Us. Our registered users may receive newsletters, email communications, or communications through other channels for, among other purposes, the promotion and marketing of a product or service from First Christian Church of Newburgh and we may also offer other visitors to our sites the opportunity to sign up to receive such information. When there is a separate sign-up for newsletters, we ask for contact information such as name and email address, and, sometimes, demographic and profile information. By visiting our website(s), you affirmatively consent to our collection and use of your data. We use this information in the same manner as we use the contact information in the Registration process described above. We may offer our users the choice whether to receive mailings from others that we think will be of interest. Recipients of our mailings can unsubscribe by following instructions that may appear at the end of email communications. To keep our registered users informed about the operation of our services, we may send emails and announcements that are needed for the proper functioning and administration of our sites and service.

Communications with Us. We have features where you can submit information to us (such as when contacting us with a question or feedback). We may retain your emails and other information you submit to us for our internal purposes, and to help us to serve you better.

Automatic Data Collection

Our website(s) may have features that automatically collect information from users to assist us in creating sites that help serve our users interests and needs.

Some of our sites use cookies, which are small data files containing information about the user that are stored on the user's hard drive. Some cookies are used to make login to our sites easier (such as by remembering usernames and passwords). Cookies can also enable us to track users' movements and target their interests to enhance their experience at our sites. We may also collect clickstream data and assign unique identifiers to our users for the same purposes. Information obtained with these technologies may be associated with your personal information, so we can better reach you and customize your experience tailored to your interests.

Most common web browsers today, such as Chrome, Firefox and Internet Explorer, allow you to modify your settings to block cookies entirely, alert you every time they are being sent, or allow their use by only those web sites you choose. You can also delete cookies that are currently stored on your computer's hard drive.

With Whom Your Information Is Shared

When we have co-branded or sponsored services, when we host a site, or when we join with other parties to provide specific services, we may share (provide and receive) your personal information with them. As with other third parties, we are not responsible for how the owner(s) handle the data once they receive it. By visiting these sites, you affirmatively consent to our collection, use and distribution of your data.

Other than as previously mentioned, we do not share your personally identifiable information with other companies, apart from those acting as our agents in providing our service to you, and which agree to use it only for that purpose and to keep the information secure and confidential. We will also disclose information we maintain when required to do so by law, in response to a court order or a subpoena or other legal obligation, in response to a law enforcement agency's request, or in special cases when we have reason to believe that disclosing this information is necessary to identify, contact or bring legal action against someone who may be causing injury to or interference with (either intentionally or unintentionally) our rights or property.

We may share (provide and receive) aggregate information, which is not personally identifiable, with others. This information may include demographic data such as the gender and/or geographic location of groups of users, but it will not include personal information (such as your name or email address). We use demographic information about our audience to improve our service, for research purposes, marketing/promotional purposes and/or for industry reporting purposes, among others.

Choice

By accepting this privacy policy, you expressly choose to receive certain communications from First Christian Church of Newburgh, and you expressly agree to the privacy practices described herein. Our website(s) may also provide you with additional specific opportunities to select communications you wish to receive. You may change your privacy preferences (choose to cease receiving certain communications) by informing us of your new preferences. We will be able to honor your new preferences most quickly if you inform us of them by following the appropriate instructions in any communication you receive from us.

Access

If a user's personally identifiable information changes (such as zip code), we strive to provide ways for said user to update or change that information. Please feel free to contact us if you have any questions regarding making changes to your personal information.

Data Collection from Children

We strive to comply with the Children's Online Privacy Protection Act (COPPA). We do not knowingly collect personal information from U.S. children under 13 without appropriate parental notice and consent. We are committed to protecting children's privacy.

Security

Security for all personally identifiable information is extremely important to us. We store your personal information securely, and use special procedures designed to protect the information we collect from loss, misuse, unauthorized access or disclosure, alteration or destruction.

Merchant/E-Commerce Areas

Our website(s) may have merchant/e-commerce areas, where users can donate or make purchases. Those areas are powered by a third-party e-commerce vendor that we have partnered with. Personal information (excluding credit card or other financial information) collected by the vendor is shared with First Christian Church of Newburgh and is subject to this Privacy Policy.

Links

On occasion, we may provide links to non-First Christian Church of Newburgh websites. We are not responsible for those other websites, their privacy policies or how they treat information about their users, and we advise you to check their privacy policies.

Website Terms & Conditions

This Privacy Policy constitutes an integrated part of First Christian Church of Newburgh's Terms & Conditions.
